GETTING THE PRINTING AND THE PAPER RIGHT

This issue is printed on recycled paper by Cox Printers. They are a local, New Jersey based printer that is partially powered by solar and wind. Rolland Enviro Print paper is derived from 100% post-consumer recycled waste. It is also FSC-certified and processed chlorine-free. The Rolland paper mill burns biogas, an alternative energy source obtained from methane gas emitted from a local landfill. Also, the additional electricity that is needed at the mill is generated from a local hydroelectric plant. We are very pleased with our printer and this environmental paper grade and anticipate that you will be, too.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends,

New Jersey Audubon thrives on partnership. Collaboration between scientists across two continents saves migratory shorebirds; land stewards and landowners connect to restore vital habitat; conservation advocates and politicians deliberate on landmark legislation; educators spread ideas on sustainability that awaken an environmental ethic. The pages of this 2018 annual report celebrate the power of partnership that is driven by a shared concern for our natural world and fueled by the ongoing support of New Jersey Audubon donors: the partners who make all our successes possible.

Forest Stewardship Plans, the blueprints of forward-thinking management, successfully returned a vanished species to the Pineland. In 2018, we celebrated the highest rate of survival of translocated bobwhite quail over four years of our Northern Bobwhite Restoration Initiative and expanded our effort for the next phase of this project. We cheered the passage of the Delaware River Basin Restoration Act and $4.2 million in new funding for on-the-ground stewardship projects, an amendment to the Farm Bill that allows funding to continue to flow to the Delaware River Basin through the Regional Conservation Partnership Program, millions of dollars for open space, parks, farmland, and historic sites, and the Prescribed Burn Act, a critical forest management tool that New Jersey Audubon had been working to achieve for over a decade.

The creation of new pollinator habitat along New Jersey highways, utility rights-of-way, and on restored crop lands is reason to feel heartened, as New Jersey Audubon works to reverse significant declines in pollinator populations. Habitat restoration benefits numerous at-risk species, including Golden-winged Warbler, Ruffed Grouse, and Bog Turtle. Restored coastal habitat positively impacted the endangered Piping Plover and Black Skimmer, as well as the American Oystercatcher, a species of special conservation concern. In 2018, we marked a significant increase in nesting pairs and chicks. Saving migratory shorebirds means teaming with scientists in Central and South America to track birds, educate citizens, curtail illegal hunting, and assess the impacts of contaminants in shrimp aquaculture. Our research extended to New Jersey urban wildlife, with surveys in the Hackensack Meadowlands on the foraging habits of waterbirds and songbirds and studies on bird collisions with tall buildings in Newark. We advocated to rid New Jersey of single-use plastics pollution, end the outdoor use of pesticides proven to harm pollinators, and halt an inappropriately sited wind project that threatened the migratory "highway" of hundreds of thousands of migrating birds.

Respect and concern for the environment must be cultivated as society grows increasingly insulated from nature and the issues that impact our health and future.

New Jersey Audubon's education team had that covered in 2018, with programs that support our priorities and promote a broader understanding of natural systems. Through strategic community-based partnership, we engaged more people through programs as diverse as the populations they serve. From teacher professional development focused on watershed protection to Eco-schools that encourage sustainability to summer camps and family hikes to hawk, butterfly, and songbird migration watches that inspire tens of thousands of visitors annually, New Jersey Audubon is fostering awareness and environmental leadership.

Conservation continues, thanks to your generosity!

Healthy forests and grasslands filter our air and water, harbor diverse wildlife, and provide restorative scenic and recreational opportunities. New Jersey Audubon's conservation practices and Forest Stewardship Plans conserve this legacy for all.

Passage of the Prescribed Burn Act, a critical tool in forest management.

Forest Stewardship Plans implemented on 16,000-acres.

---

Conservation practices applied to 3,900 acres of agricultural land, including the creation of pollinator habitat.

The 2018 season demonstrated the highest rate of Northern Bobwhite survival over 4 years of quail restoration.

Returning Northern Bobwhite to the Pinelands, proving southern birds can survive, persist, overwinter, and reproduce.

Cropland restored to 4 acres of native herbaceous wetland habitat and 23 acres of native warm season grasses and wildflowers to protect New Jersey's State Reptile, the federally threatened Bog Turtle.

80 additional quail released, resulting in a total of 320 translocated birds.

Maintaining young forest habitat on 3,000 privately owned acres benefits Ruffed Grouse, Golden-winged Warbler, and other species of conservation concern.

RUFFED GROUSE

Passage of federal legislation to fund Delaware River Basin restoration and stewardship.

---

An amendment to the Farm Bill to allow continued funding to protect the Delaware River Watershed.

Ensuring tens of millions of dollars in new funds to preserve and steward open space, parks, farmland, and historic sites, and developing implementation legislation to guide expenditure of open space funds.

An intricate fabric of habitats, the Jersey Shore serves a multitude of needs: incubator of wildlife, migratory corridor, recreation destination, industry frontier. New Jersey Audubon provides the vigilance and expertise needed to conserve these ecological jewels.

NORTHERN GANNET ▲

Shorebird conservation means educating and curtailing illegal hunting in Suriname, French Guiana, and Brazil.

Studying shrimp aquaculture in Brazil to expose high levels of heavy metal contaminants in migratory shorebirds.

Adding automated tracking stations in Brazil complements those in Suriname and French Guiana that pinpoint threats along Semipalmated Sandpiper migration routes.

Utilizing decades of Avalon Seawatch data to stop the development of a near-shore wind turbine farm, which would have impacted hundreds of thousands of migrating shorebirds each year.

Federally threatened Piping Plover, state endangered Black Skimmer and Least Tern, and the American Oystercatcher – a species of special conservation concern – all significantly increased at Stone Harbor Point, where NJ Audubon and partners restored more than 40 acres of beach habitat.

Partnering to stop rollbacks of the Clean Water Act and the opening of offshore lease areas for oil and gas exploration and development.

▲ LEAST TERNS

STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math) programs with Paterson Public Schools, utilizing the Paterson Falls National Park.

Four years of surveys and habitat management guidance for utility Rights-of-Way mean restored habitat for Golden-winged Warblers and other at-risk birds, reptiles, amphibians, and wildlife.

After-school teacher training to over 50 teachers, encouraging outdoor exploration to connect children to nature in their own communities.

New laws requiring that state transportation agencies use only native vegetation for landscaping, land management, and reforestation result in 50 native planting sites, helping pollinators along the Atlantic City Expressway.

Bird collision surveys at 12 tall buildings in Newark found 300 victims of 50 species in a three-month span; increasing awareness can inspire bird safety designs.

Studying foraging behavior and habitat use of waterbirds and songbirds in the Hackensack Meadowlands helps us assess contaminants exposure to protect birds.

Advocating to end the outdoor use of pesticides causing pollinator declines, avoiding potential ecological disaster.

GIVING FROM YOUR IRA

WHEN CONGRESS PASSED THE PATH ACT OF 2015, the law permanently renewed the charitable IRA provision allowing those aged 70 ½ or older to make direct charitable gifts from traditional and Roth IRA's to qualified charities up to $100,000 annually free from federal income taxation. This method of giving could benefit you in many ways, especially for those who must take required minimum distributions each year.

FOR MORE INFORMATION on how you can make a charitable gift from your IRA to New Jersey Audubon, please contact your plan administrator or Kimberly Armenti, VP of Development and Communications at kimberly.amenti@njudubon.org or 908-396-7405.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT!
